Mrs Charnley's Message:

How lovely to start this half term with the great news that we can open for all the children from the 8th of March. I know that you have all been amazing during this recent 'lockdown', but just like staff I know you will be delighted that the children will be back in school. Please read the information about this wider reopening as there are a few alterations from the Autumn Term, especially around drop off and pick up timings.

This half term sees us all on our Lenten Journey. As always the conversation is always around 'giving something up' for Lent. I has been listening to the children on the zoom sessions sharing with each other just what they are hoping to do. In my house there was the suggestion that I should give up working so hard and so make more time for myself which I am sure strikes a chord with many of us. It did make me think that will giving up chocolate change my life or making time to make space for God. Lent is definitely when we should try to do both.

Have a lovely weekend and let's enjoy the spring weather.

Mrs Charnley and the Staff of Saint Clare's.

World Book Day It is World Book Day on Thursday 4th March. Unfortunately, we are not going to be back in school for this fun day this year, however, we would love to still celebrate it! We are running a World Book Day Competition - we would like you to create a 'Book in a Box!' Choose your favourite book and find yourself a box (an unused shoe box or a empty cereal box). Decorate the inside of this box so that it represents your book - it could replicate the front cover, show a scene from the book or have all the characters present from the book. Be creative!!! Click on the blog to see some examples. Once complete, take a photo of your creation and send your entries to wbd@st-clares.lancs.sch.uk by Friday 26th February. We will select the winners and they will be announced in Mrs. Charnely's assembly the week of World Book Day. Prizes for the best entries will be book vouchers. If you would still like to dress up as a book character, we would still love to see your costumes. Attach your pictures to your competition entries and email them through to us!
